Ordering a AdamCHAN Guitars

Thanks for your vote of confidence. You are about to order a custom made guitar. It is exciting and some times scary. The entire process is about making major and minor choices at different junctures of the guitar making processes. To someone who has no guitar making experiences, it can be daunting.

I am here to help my clients to make those choices, wise choices. My first priority is to understand their wishes relating to the custom guitars in their minds. A line of clear communications would help in that.

There are many guitar makers in this world. We have our strengths and weaknesses. There are works that I am very familiar with. Invariably, there are certain forms of work I may not be well-practised at them. You can see it as my guitar making boundaries.

In advising my clients, their interests would be placed first. If it is foreseeable that going with clients' requests would likely to be not favourable to the outcomes, I would not hesitate to share the limitations and recommend alternatives to them.

Do not hesitate to contact me and initiate a line communication regarding custom making a AdamCHAN Guitars. Hear from you soon.
